UURAF Posters – Breslin | Judge Instructions

Thank you for volunteering to evaluate presentations at the University Undergraduate Research and Arts Forum (UURAF). Our hope is that you will engage presenters in meaningful dialogue about their research and provide constructive and supportive feedback to help improve their presentations.

Select one poster that should win first place. After reviewing each presentation, return the judge form (paper) with the selected 1st place winner to the Judge Check-in Table by 5:00 pm TODAY.

All online feedback (below) must also be completed by 5:00 PM Eastern on Friday, April 11.

Judging Criteria: Excellent (10-8 pts) – Good (7-5 pts) – Fair (4-2 pts) – Needs Improvement (1-0 pts)

Scoring in each category ranges from 10 (best) to 0 (low) with a total possible score of 40.
- Appearance & Organization
- Context & Significance
- Content Knowledge
- Oral Presentation & Answering Questions

As you review presentations, please recognize the broad types of research and creative scholarship represented as you seek to provide comparable evaluations.

- UURAF is an educational setting open to all disciplines and to all undergraduate students who will benefit from improved presentation and communication skills. It provides an opportunity for students to communicate their mentored scholarly and creative projects to a broad audience.
- Presentations represent projects ranging from short-term independent study, to semester (or longer) class-based research, to multi-year group research programs, and more.
- While students most often present a comprehensive overview of the entire project, some may choose to focus only on the inspiration/process of developing a project or on the potential impact of the project in their disciplines or in broader society.
- In addition to completed projects, students are encouraged to present preliminary concepts, theoretical proposals, literature reviews, or in-progress or future projects.
