What is UURAF?

UURAF (pronounced: you-raf) provides Michigan State undergraduate students with an opportunity to showcase their scholarship and creative activity with the university community. Poster, oral, performance, film, and visual art presentations will all be on display during this hybrid event.

What to expect at UURAF

Stopping by the Breslin Center at any time during the event will allow you to explore the multitude of research and creative work completed by students. Over 1200 students will be showcasing their posters to friends, family, mentors, and judges. Students will be presenting in four sessions. Feel free to walk around, ask questions, and visit our graduate school fair.

How Do I Find a Particular Presentation?

You can locate a particular poster by using our online program book HERE which displays a student's poster number, location, modality, and presentation time.
